

Democrats Take Control of Congress

Washington, Nov. 3 — (AP) Democrats clinched control of Congress today.

After breaking a 48 to 48 tie in the Senate, the Democrats grabbed a majority of the House seats—213 — on returns from Tuesday's elections.

Indications were they would have a comfortable working majority in the House when all the votes are counted.

Including holdovers and members elected yesterday, the Democrats counted 49 Senate seats and were leading in three other states. An actual Senate majority is 49.

Thus the people—in a startling upset — decided to revamp the legislative body President Truman dubbed history's second worst — even idiot.

In this battle royal for supremacy in the House — the chamber the Republicans were sure they couldn't lose — Democrats had ousted 40 or more Republicans and one American Labor Party member, Rep. Leo Isaacson of New York.

Not one Democrat who stood for reelection had been turned down.

Among other personalities, Rep. Harold Knutson of Minnesota, author of last year's Republican tax bill, is trailing in his Minnesota election. He is chairman of the House Ways and Means committee.

Rep. Fred Hartley (R-NJ) co-author of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, elected to stand for reelection. His district elected a Democrat to take his place.

But House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, and most other Republican big wheels in the House survived the Democratic onslaught. These included the Republican leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, Chairman John Taber (NY) of the Appropriations committee, Chairman Charles A. Eaton (NJ) of the Foreign Affairs committee, Chairman Leo E. Allen (Ill) of the Rules committee, Chairman Jesse J. Volcott (Mich) of the Banking committee and Chairman Clifford E. Hope (Kans) of the Agriculture committee.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas of the House Un-American Activities committee pulled through in New Jersey. But one of his Republican colleagues on that controversial committee, Rep. John McDowell of Pennsylvania, was defeated.

However, if the trends hold, the Republican committee chairman will have to step aside and let Democrats take the reins. These include some big name party members elected in the early days of the New Deal.

Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas would return to the speaker's chair, replacing Martin who unseated him when Republicans took control two years ago.

Confident Republicans entered the Senate contests with 51 seats, of which only 18 were at stake this year. Most GOP leaders expected to retain their six vote margin or at worst end in a 48 to 48 tie with the Democrats.

They won the first contest last September when Rep. Margaret Chase Smith won the Maine Senate seat vacated by Senate Majority Leader H. Wallace.

But Tuesday's story was different. Former Gov. Robert Kari quickly outdistanced Rep. Ross Ritzel, the Republican seeking the seat being vacated by Senator E. H. Rife (R).

When the veteran Matthew M. Neely, Democratic former governor, representative and senator, pulled up a victory lead in West Virginia over Senator Chapman Revercomb (R).

Another former Democratic senator, Guy M. Gillette of Iowa, outdistanced Senator George A. Wilson in the corn belt.

In Illinois it was the same story. Paul H. Douglas, college professor and Democrat, beat GOP Senator W. Wadsworth of Quincy.

Republican Senator Joseph H. Ball was outdistanced in Minnesota by Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis. And in Wyoming, Democratic Gov. Lester C. Hunt beat Republican Senator E. V. Robertson.

As in the House, key committee chairmanships will go back to veterans who previously held them. These include Senator Tom Connally (Tex.) for foreign relations, Senator Walter George (Ga.) finance, and Senator Kenneth D. McKellar (Tenn.) appropriations.

A large bloc of Southern senators who either moved or opposed Mr. Truman's nomination will sit in the next Senate. But they are not in line for major committee posts under the traditional seniority—or length of service—rules.

Dewey

he called Congress into special session last summer, he asked for revival of the wartime tax on "excess profits" of corporations.

For the rest of the world, the means double assurance that there would be no shift in American foreign policy. The present policy has been called bi-partisan, but some edginess had been evidenced in Europe over the wide held pre-election expectation that a change in political administration was coming.

In Washington, speculation already is running high that Mr. Truman now will make many shifts in his own administration.

This is based on the view that he got little help in his campaign from many Democratic office holders who had looked on it as a lost cause. Among the cabinet members, Mr. Truman's chief of staff, Mr. E. A. Tamm, Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin and Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan.

The dopesters figure these two will surely stay, but are inclined to list many other high officials as "doubtful" of continuing as members of the administration family.

Close associates of Secretary of State Marshall said in Paris he definitely plans to leave that post in January, and Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett is also reported to be planning to leave.

In the case of Marshall, the question is whether the president might try to talk him into staying on. A soldier who took the cabinet job because he thought it was a duty call, there was never any expectation among the president's inner circle that Marshall would take the campaign trail in Mr. Truman's behalf.

Along with their victory in the White House and Congressional contests, the Democrats made many gains in state and local offices.

They captured the governorships from Republicans in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana and Montana. The Republicans overturned the Democratic administration in Utah.

In the election, the 48 states were split evenly in State House administrations—24 Republican and 24 Democratic.

The shifts indicated the Democrats would now have 30 and the Republicans 18—barring some upset in undecided races.

Mr. Truman topped every kind of odds to hold on to his job as president.

He licked Dewey in the closest presidential race in 32 years; in an amazing upset as the American public ever helped engineer.

He stays on at the White House for his first full four-year term despite the loss of the fat electoral votes of New York and Pennsylvania—and despite the desertion of Alabama, South Carolina, Mississippi and probably Louisiana to the States' Rights cause.

He keeps intact as a going concern a Democratic party that can shrug off Henry A. Wallace's Progressives and probably can ignore Civil Rights revolts if it can't bring them to heel.

For the 64-year-old president not only had to shake off the challenge of a 48-year-old Republican opponent—he had to roll over the States' Righters and the Progressives.

It was the kind of line-handed going the president had got used to in running the nomination over strong opposition in 1940 on party and in waging his "give 'em hell" campaign against Dewey.

Wallace's vote knocked Mr. Truman out of New York State, and helped Dewey take the lead in Connecticut and Maryland.

But the stubborn Truman ambushed his Republican opponents in their own middle-western preserves.

He raided Illinois and Ohio. He stole Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota out of the Republicans' hip pockets.

Above all, Mr. Truman whipped what he had dubbed the nation's "second worst," "idiot" Congress—the Republican-controlled 80th.

He got a Democratic Congress that is certain to hear anew about his ideas of reviving the New Deal. But in the process of getting, he lost a Senate leader, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky who took over the presidential January 20, when the president begins his first full four-term.

Indications are that Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois will succeed the job as majority leader.

From John Foster Dulles in Paris came an assertion that the outcome of the election would not alter bi-partisan foreign policy.

Dulles, Dewey's foreign affairs adviser, told reporters "we shall go along in our bipartisan way."

But a victorious Truman will certainly have more to say about the shaping of foreign policy than he shaping of foreign policy than he.

And the president may have some political scores to settle.

He is not likely to lean too heavily in the future on the advice of such political leaders as Jacob Arvey of Chicago, Frank Hague of Jersey City and others who fought his nomination, but later went along to aid in his election.

Neither will he be likely to take kindly to those Democratic lawmakers who went along with the revolt against his Civil Rights program.

On the other hand, Mr. Truman will owe a measure of allegiance to the labor leaders who stuck by him in his fund-starved, whistle-stop hand-shaking drive for votes.

By the Associated Press

President Harry S. Truman rode an amazing tide of votes today toward a possible new term in the White House.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey—the man the dopesters had picked to win taking away—trailed from the first returns of votes today.

But with millions of votes still to be counted the final results in 10 doubtful states could give either man the presidency.

Or they could throw this topsy-turvy election into the House of Representatives of the 81st Congress. There, each state would have one vote. And in that case, the Senate would elect the vice president.

Barring a complete reversal of trend, resurgent Democrats seemed likely to take over both the House and Senate which they lost in 1946.

Dewey had pitched almost his entire campaign to the theme of unity—the one factor he pictured as vital to win the elusive peace and bring inflation under control.

In his "give 'em hell" campaign, the president fumped the top heavy Republican House and the slender, held GOP Senate together to call it the nation's "second worst" Congress.

For a man who hadn't been given a chance by the pollsters but wouldn't quit, the score card showed these popular vote results at 5:30 a. m. Central Standard Time:

President Truman 18,298,819; Henry Wallace 852,183; Governor Dewey 16,742,387; Gov. J. Strom Thurmond 745,293.

At that time, Mr. Truman either had won or led in 28 states with 222 electoral votes. Dewey had won or led in 16 states with 211 electoral votes.

Neither candidate made any final claim of victory, but both insisted confidence the results would be favorable to them.

Mr. Truman went to bed at Independence, Mo., without making any public statement.

Dewey conferred by telephone with Gov. Earl Warren, his running mate. Warren said they agreed "the situation is inconclusive."

Governor Thurmond of South Carolina, the States' Rights candidate, apparently had captured four states in the deep, once solidly Democratic South—Alabama, Louisiana, South Carolina and Mississippi, with a combined total of 38 electoral votes.

Thurmond's name would go before the House along with Truman's and Dewey's if the election were tossed in the lawmakers' laps.

But the presidential contest seemed most likely to be decided finally in these 10 states with 114 electoral votes.

California, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Wisconsin, Indiana, Nevada, Ohio, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Truman either had won or held commanding leads in 21 states with 210 electoral votes.

They included Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Dewey had won, or held top-heavy leads in 13 states with an electoral vote total of 160.

They included Connecticut, Kansas, Maryland, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

It became apparent as the vote counting rolled along that Mr. Truman might have won handsomely if it had not been for Thurmond and Henry A. Wallace, the Progressive party candidate.

The loss of four solid South states to Thurmond—with 38 votes—hurt the president's chances.

Wallace—kicked out of the cabinet by Mr. Truman—got a measure of revenge. He polled a vote larger than the difference between votes of Truman and Dewey totals in California, Connecticut, Maryland, Nevada, New York and Ohio.

If he had not been in the race and the major share of his vote had gone to the Democrats, Mr. Truman probably would have carried New York instead of losing it to Dewey.

New York was the blow that hurt most. Dewey won it by slightly less than 50,000 votes instead of the 400,000 his followers confidently had hoped predicting.

But Mr. Truman, rolling with the punch, seemed on the way toward a victory that might duplicate that of Woodrow Wilson, who won in 1918 without New York.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, Nov. 3 — (AP)—Grains took the astonishing election news with a mild show of strength today. It was felt the result meant continuation of the long range price support program.

Prices were up around a cent at the opening, and this gain was increased slightly in later dealings. Commission houses and local traders bought. There appeared to be some covering by previous sellers.

Wheat closed 1-1/2-3/4 higher, December 22.29-22.50 1-8, corn was 1-8-1-1/4 higher, December 1.38 34-1/2, oats were 1-5-1-1/2 higher, December 78 1-4, eye undischanged to 1-4 higher, December 1.01, soybeans were unchanged to 1-1/4 lower, November 22.52 1-4, and hard was 10 cents lower to 10 November 18.65.

Spot wheat moved higher with the trade in futures today; basis steady; receipts 30 cars. Corn was higher also basis steady holdings 55,000 bushels receipts 1,018 cars. Oats were higher; basis firm; receipts 21 cars. Soybeans receipts were 168 cars.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

New Orleans, Nov. 3 — (AP)—Cotton futures advanced as much as $2.55 a bale in early dealings today, influenced by the election results. A good part of the advance was later cut on hedging and profit taking. Considerable covering developed on the theory that the new Congress will continue friendly to agriculture and price support programs. Fear that the high loan scheduled on the cotton crop might be lowered appeared to be dispelled, with the new crop deliveries sharply higher.

Cotton futures rallied better than 30 cents a bale from the extreme lows for the day on mill buying and covering near the close of trading.

Futures closed 15 cents to $2.19 a bale higher than the previous day.

They knew would vote a straight Democratic and they saw no use in conducting a balloting.

New York, Nov. 3 — (AP) The stock market went careening downward today for one of the sharpest declines in a couple of years.

The Republican upset lashed out at heavy waves of selling from all parts of the country. Losses ranged from 1 to 6 points.

Slight signs of a rally appeared now and then but none of the recovery moves had any punch.

Turnover topped the 3,000,000 share mark for the full session. Second largest total for the year thus far. Monday's business amounted to 1,220,000 shares.

Business was orderly throughout although a good deal of crowding and pushing was noted around some of the trading posts.

Request for Quick Increase Denied Rails

Washington, Nov. 2 — (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today rejected the railroad's petition for an immediate "emergency" 13 per cent freight rate increase.

The commission announced it will upon hearings Nov. 10 on the general 13 per cent advance in rates asked by the railroads.

At that time, the ICC said, it will also take evidence on the rail industry motion for an 8 per cent increase to be collected while the commission considers the request for a 13 per cent advance on a long-term basis.

The railroads asked the ICC on Oct. 12 for permission to boost rates quickly as an emergency measure in view of new wage increases for rail workers.

The carriers said the situation three or four hours. Selling orders were so far out of line with buying that it took some time for traders to arrive at a price.

Exchange officials said the widespread deal was almost without precedent.

All but McClellan had Republican opposition. The senator was opposed by 10 Democrats, R. W. Tucker, Batesville attorney. Trimble was having the closest race of any of the Democratic candidates, but it seemed certain he had defeated GOP hopes of sending Bolton Dolson, Huntsville, to Congress.

Mr. Truman's victory in Arkansas was a personal triumph for McMath and a rebuff to the man he'll succeed next January. Gov. Ben Laney, the incumbent, elected supported Truman. Laney bitterly opposed him and headed the States Rights campaign in this state.

Fifth District Congress: 99 of 274 precincts: Hays 9,593, Thad Tisdale Little Rock (4) 1200.

Tackett, 37-year-old lawyer, succeeds Rep. Edgar Cravens, Fort Smith, as the Western Arkansas district representative. Cravens declined to seek reelection.

Democratic Congressmen re-elected without opposition were: C. C. Garthright, West Memphis, First District; Wilbur D. Miller, Kensett, Second District; W. F. Norrell, Monticello, Sixth District and Oren Harris, El Dorado, Seventh District.

The total vote is yet to be determined, but there appeared prospect of it reaching the 220,000 total veteran political observers had estimated. The record vote cast in a presidential election in Arkansas was 220,022 in 1932, the year Franklin D. Roosevelt rolled up the greatest vote a presidential candidate ever received.

The long ballot — it included seven referendum items — complicated the counting and a dozen counties ceased tabulating before midnight.

Act No. 2 bitterly opposed by the dry forces who have succeeded in banning legal sale of alcoholic beverages in much of the state under an Initiated Act of 1942, was close throughout the counting.

It trailed briefly and then took a small lead on tabulations shortly before midnight, and moved more than 2,000 votes in front later.

The Arkansas Education Association, loser two years ago in an effort to initiate an act similar to this year's school district reorganization proposal, showed its strength in the vote on three of the initiated measures.

The organization sponsored initiation of Act No. 1, that act would place all districts in a county, having less than 350 enumerated, into a single county district, which would be time for districts, which would be affected, to consolidate or reorganize.

The AEA also supported Amendment No. 40, which was submitted to the 1947 legislature and passed. The AEA members, opposed No. 41, Laney launched an attack on the proposal to remove the school district tax limitation.

When the Arkansas Legislative Council committee, which included some AEA members, opposed No. 41, Laney launched an attack on the proposal to remove the school district tax limitation.

Dewey Not to Run a Third Time

New York, Nov. 3 — (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, after conceding defeat, said today he would not consider running for a third time for the presidency.

His firm answer, in response to a press conference question, was "No."

Only two hours before he had conceded defeat.

He sent this telegram to President Truman.

"My heartiest congratulations to you on your election and every good wish for a successful administration. I urge all Americans to unite behind you in support of every effort to keep our nation strong and free and establish peace in the world."

By error the telegram was dated Nov. 2.

The first question popped at the conference was: "What happened?"

"I was just as surprised as you are and I gather that is shared by everyone in this room," Dewey said.

Then he was asked whether he believed there had been an error in strategy in the conduct of his campaign.

Dewey replied in the negative, and said that he had talked the situation over with his vice-presidential running mate, Gov. Earl Warren of California. They agreed they had waged a "clean and constructive campaign." He added:

"I have no regret in the world."

In response to a query as to whether he would seek a third term as governor of New York, he said:

"I have no such plans."

He denied a report he would resign his gubernatorial post, dis-constitutional amendments.

With 1124 of 2217 precincts reported, the vote was:

For 70,024; against 36,730.

No. 40 — for 78,337; against 44,467.

No. 41 — for 43,400; against 77,692.

No. 39 provides legislative authority, now provided by constitution, to institute a registration system for Arkansas voters if desired.

No. 40 would remove the present 18-mill maximum tax levy for school districts, allowing districts to vote any millage desired.

No. 41, only one of three apparently defeated, would prohibit the legislature from imposing a state ad valorem property tax.

AP—Initiated acts, 1062 of 2217 precincts: No. 1, for 75,282 against 42,450; No. 2, for 61,305, against 60,517; No. 3, for 73,296, against 39,611; No. 4, for 82,022, against 30,612.

THE STORY
Time, 1880 Place, New Orleans

Louis Durand, 37, a well-to-do bachelor, has been corresponding with Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. He has proposed marriage and she has accepted. According to her picture, Miss Russell is dark-haired, strong-featured and no longer young. Durand goes down to the dock to meet the boat that is to bring her from St. Louis. He is dumfounded when an exquisite young blond creature introduces herself as Julia. She explains her little device by saying she didn't want him to fall for just a pretty face. They are married and after a gay wedding supper, Durand takes his bride to the lavish new home he has built for her.

He lifted her bodily in his arms. She came clear of the ground with a little foamy rustle of skirt bottoms. Moving sideward so that his shoulder might ward off the loose-swinging door, he carried her over the sill and in. Then dipped again and set her back on her feet, in a little froth of lacey heels.

He stepped aside, closed the door, and bolted it.

She was looking around, standing in one place but moving her body in a half-circle from there, to take in everything.

"Like it?" he asked.

He went to a lamp, turned the little wheel, heightening its flame to a yellow stalagmite. Then to another, and another, wherever they had been left. The walls brightened from dull ivory to pure white. The newness of everything became doubly conspicuous.

"Like it?" he beamed.

Her hands were clasped, and she looked upward to height of her face; held that way in a sort of stylized rhapsody.

"Oh, Louis," she breathed. "It's ideal. It's exquisite."

"It's yours," he said.

She moved her hands out to one side of her face now, still clasped, and nestled her cheek against them slantwise. Then across to the other side, and repeated it there.

"Oh, Louis" was all she seemed capable of saying. "Oh, Louis."

They moved around then on a brief tour, from room to room, and he showed her the parlor, the dining room, the others. And for each room she had an exclaiming "Oh, Louis" until, at last, she seemed, breath held, left her altogether, and she could only sigh "Oh."

They came back to the hall at last, and he said somewhat diffidently that he would lock up.

"Will you be able to find your room?" he asked, as she turned toward the stairs. "Or shall I come up with you?"

She dropped her eyes for a moment before his. "I think I shall know it," she said chastely.

He placed one of the smaller lamps in her hands. "Better take this with you to make sure. She probably left lights up there, but she may not have."

Sen. McClellan Gives Credit to Truman

Little Rock Nov. 3 — (AP) — Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) said here today that "naturally I'm very happy over the Democratic victory."

He said "President Truman won an uphill fight largely by the character of the campaign he made, and is personally entitled to a full measure of credit."

McClellan often has opposed Truman on legislative proposals.

Conway Man Killed in Car Accident

Conway, Nov. 3 — (AP) — Jephtha B. Mayhew, 45, Conway, was injured fatally early today when his car overturned near Palmar creek on the Little Rock-Conway highway.

Mayhew, a navy veteran with 21 years service, was attending Arkansas State Teachers college here under the GI Bill of Rights. He is survived by his widow and a brother, Earl Mayhew, postmaster at nearby Greenbrier.

13 Feared Lost in Plane Crash

London, Nov. 3 — (AP) — A U. S. Air Force Superfortress crashed in murky weather near Manchester today, apparently killing the three officers and 10 enlisted men aboard.

The big bomber, one of the fleet stationed in Britain since last summer when the Berlin crisis became acute, was reported to have hit a high hill and burned.

Telephone Wage Demands to Be Worked Out

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 2 — (AP) — Final wage demands in behalf of 52,000 employees of the Southwest Bell Telephone Co. are expected to be worked out at a union meeting underway here this week.

The wage offer is being prepared by the bargaining committee of the telephone company and the committee has gone into executive session during the division's week-long convention here.

missing it as "pure fiction."

He said he had no immediate plans "beyond today, and beyond today, I am going back to Albany and get some sleep for a change," he said.

"As for political plans, I have no plans," he said.

The conference was held in the same mezzanine room in the hotel Roosevelt where four years ago he conceded defeat to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A newsmen asked, "Do you think it is essential that we continue the bi-partisan foreign policy?"

Dewey said he thought it was "most essential that we do."

The past week-end, Dewey added, "was one of the blackest in the recent history of the world." He did not amplify this.

On the future of the Republican party, he said "a difference of one-half per cent in three or four states would have made a different result, so I think that leaves the question wide open."

Asked his opinion of the future of the Progressive party, he laughed and said, "not much."

DOROTHY DIX Old Man's Flirtatiousness

Dear Miss Dix: After reading the problem about a middle-aged husband having affairs with young girls, I am moved to tell you how I solved it. My husband, who is well past 50, was having an affair with a young waitress and I found out about it.

I didn't reproach him, cry over it nor make any fuss. Instead I would say to my husband: "Let's go eat tonight at the restaurant where your Girl Friend works. She is so pretty and young I like to look at her."

Or if we had company at home and I couldn't stop out I'd say to the others: "Be sure to go to the restaurant where Miss So-and-so works. She is my husband's Girl Friend and is so nice and attractive." And so on and so on.

I simply fed him up with flattery of this girl, and I guess at last it scared on his stomach. Anyway, it cured him and everything is fine with us now.

L. L.

Answer: Thanks for the recipe for curing an old man's flirtatiousness. I am sure it will prove efficacious in almost every case, for elderly men's attacks of romance are seldom fatal. At about his age Grandpa is apt to have a little touch of wanderlust and think he would like to step out with some girl young enough to be his granddaughter, but nothing happens if Grandpa is smart enough to throw roses instead of bricks at the affair.

Sense of Humor Needed

The trouble with elderly wives is that they lack a sense of humor. They think their husbands should act their age. So when they see their rheumatic Johns capering around like kids, they take it seriously and dissolve in tears and reproaches—which is a fatal mistake, for it causes Grandpa to feel devilish and that he must be a woe among the girls. He even gets a kick out of knowing he makes Grandma jealous. But the real play would be for Grandpa to just laugh it off and say that Grandpa always was a lady-killer, and to invite the little girl-digger to a party.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is it possible to be in love with three men at once? I seem to be in just that predicament. One man is a soldier, one is a jack-of-all trades and the last is a prize fighter. I seem to love all three of them.

Please tell me what to do. I seem to be all mixed up.

R. H. C.

Answer: I should think you would feel like a custard pie, all mixed up in three romances. Not being acquainted with any of the fascinating gentlemen with whom you are in near-love, I cannot help you in much of your choice; but it seems to me that each of them has his points.

The soldier is always attractive to women because brass buttons certainly do something to a man that make him almost hypnotic and irresistible to a girl, so that's that. The jack-of-all-trades would fill a long-kept want in every wife's life, for it would be fine to have a husband who could fix the plumbing and repair the leaks in the roof and hang pictures and do all the thousand odd jobs that most wives have to nag their husbands into doing.

As for the prize fighter, I am a little dubious. He might be too handy with his fists when the dinner was over and the bills too high. But you never can tell how a man is going to turn out as a husband. You simply have to pay your money and take your choice.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is it true that the reason that most of the marriages that turn into divorces or failures is because most of the couples are failures before marriage?

Answer: Probably. For the thing that makes a marriage a failure or success is the kind of people who marry. An man or woman of intelligence, good principles and self-control will make a success of marriage. It is the selfish and neurotic people who fill the divorce courts.

Fair Enough

New York, Nov. 2 — Slowly but persistently the ghastly truth is dawning that Franklin D. Roosevelt built up the United States and built up the enemy who is now making it necessary for this nation to spend its way into bankruptcy feeding and organizing Europe so that western Europe will not be as a battle-line in the coming Roosevelt memorial war. It is useless to pretend that our government, even the Truman government, does not foresee and expect that war. Otherwise we would have no reason to draft soldiers and to resume as we have, the production of war materials under government procurement contracts. Who else threatens us? Strategically, Governor Dewey has failed to state the facts of this terrible situation in his campaign speeches. He may feel that it would be bad politics to do so because Americans are supposed to be sentimental and some might turn on him for speaking ill of a man who died so bravely. There is no hard and fast rule fixing the time limit, but a decent interval is respected by common consent in most cases. Roosevelt's political heirs have enjoyed a benefit from this false doctrine, and the people have suffered detriment because Roosevelt's terrible guilt and the inevitability of the Russian war are the only issues of the campaign which are worth while. The silly, mindless platitudes of President Truman is a disgrace to the State's Rights, precious and essential to the preservation of the internal design of our government. It is mere gibberish. They will not matter in a war will throw us into panic and anarchy at first and then will bring us a dictatorship so that we may play traitors to our own people.

Neither Roosevelt nor Truman has even mentioned the one awful thing that terrifies every American who had hoped when Second World War was done to be allowed to go back to the peaceful enjoyment of life in a land of such abundance and comfort as this world never saw before. Truman is afraid to mention the subject of war. First he had to consider the danger of hastening Russia's attack, which he is no more able to "time" than anyone else could. He knew that Roosevelt's guilt would be dragged out the minute he dared make an issue of the causes of the situation with Russia.

Roosevelt's guilty encouragement of the Communist penetration of our government as revealed by the committee on American Activities, is to the benefit of the Kremlin, of course. So are the confusion, the instability and inefficiency which afflict our commerce and industry all caused by Communists in Roosevelt's cabinet. This sabotage has been caused either directly through their own agents or by stupid, old-line union bosses of the U. S. who are morally and intellectually unfit for any positions of power. All this is according to the great Communist plan to cripple us.

Benjamin Gitlow, who in his day occupied every important post in the American Communist party, is one of our famous backslabbers, is one of the best authorities on this Roosevelt subsidence. His authority can not be doubted and he has now written his second book on the peril. He seems to be trying to make amends. It is too bad he had them to make.

"Three events," says Gitlow in this new book, "The Whole of Their Lives," "one in the U. S. political field, the other in the economic field, the third in the international field of diplomacy established them as a factor in the political, social and economic affairs of the country. American Communism owes its rise and prominence to the election of Roosevelt in 1932, to the organization of the Committee for Industrial Organization in 1935, to the recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States in 1933, to the United States' New Deal program and the recognition of the growth of Communism in the United States, the organization of the CIO from the Communist standpoint is much more basic and of lasting importance to the movement, even though the organization of the CIO with Roosevelt's blessing would never have taken place. The recognition of the Soviet Union facilitated Soviet and Communist international Communist conspiracy, penetration of the United States. It opened wide the doors for the infiltration of the government by Communists and their satellites drawn from a growing army of fellow-travelers."

On the subject of Roosevelt's flippant, all-wise betrayal of the United States and of Western Christendom at Tehran and Yalta, in his conferences with Stalin, G. M. D. and the other three, Gitlow and students of these things need hardly have written. Nor even Roosevelt's defenders have dared try to justify his conduct or mitigate his guilt. Truman just ignores it.

Dewey has been willing to do the same out of a false and historically based consideration for the crocodile feelings of Roosevelt's followers. Dewey should have argued that these tragic truths are all too clear to the eyes when the truth is necessary to take up the Russian challenge.

Favorites Not Doing So Well in North Carolina
Pinchurst, N. C., Nov. 3 —(UP)—The players who were supposed to run away with the prizes had plenty of ground to make up today as the annual U. S. Open Golf Open golf tournament and South Carolina second round with veteran Chick Harbert and unknowns Glenn Teal and Julius Beres in each of the three preamblers.

Each of the three preamblers fired a four-under-par 63 in the opening round yesterday over the Pinchurst County Club course as the players ran into trouble and dropped behind.
Harbert, a Detroit carder, a 34-34 bridgeport, Conn., while Teal, a Charlotte, N. C., had 35-33. One stroke off the pace was veteran Chick Harbert and unknowns Glenn Teal and Julius Beres in each of the three preamblers.

Pinchurst, N. C., Nov. 3 —(UP)—The golf experts around here will tell you the most promising young player to make the tournament circuit this year is Jackie Burke a transplanted Texan who plays out of White Plains, N. Y.
He had a 71 in yesterday's first round of the day and South Carolina then went right out and began practicing his putting. What's more, he has the best pros in the business watching him when he practices.

McGehee Seeking to Move Desha County Seat

McGehee, Nov. 2 —(UP)—The presidential race may be of primary importance in most United States towns today but in McGehee Ark., it takes a back seat. The folks here are interested in one thing, moving the county seat of Desha County from Arkansas City to McGehee.

The move was approved by County Judge Erwin and appears on the Desha ballot today. It was attempted because of the dwindling population in Arkansas City and the boom which has shot McGehee's population to more than 5,000.

Arkansas City, located on the Mississippi river, became the county seat in 1879 when steamboat traffic was at its heaviest. However, during the past decade river traffic has dwindled, the ferry for railroad cars has been withdrawn and the population of Arkansas City has dwindled from its once 2,000 to approximately 1,000.

During the same time McGehee has become the trade center of Southeast Arkansas and its population now tops 5,000. And already the citizens here are bidding for land as a courthouse site and have offered the use of their new city hall in the meantime.

Baby with Outside Liver Survives
London, Oct. 31 —(AP)—A six-day-old liver and intestines outside her body, has made an "unconventional recovery" from an operation—carried out two hours after birth—to put these organs in their normal place. Two London doctors, R.S.S. Acharya and R. W. Burdett, reported the case in the "British Medical Journal." They said they believed the child "was the youngest to be anesthetized successfully with cyclopropane."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

Pinchurst, N. C., Nov. 3 —(UP)—The golf experts around here will tell you the most promising young player to make the tournament circuit this year is Jackie Burke a transplanted Texan who plays out of White Plains, N. Y.

He had a 71 in yesterday's first round of the day and South Carolina then went right out and began practicing his putting. What's more, he has the best pros in the business watching him when he practices.

Peabody Walker, Wake Forest football coach, showed up the other day in one of the biggest, shiniest new cars you ever saw.

A friend asked, "Did some rich kid buy you that?" said Peabody: "No, all they give you is H—."

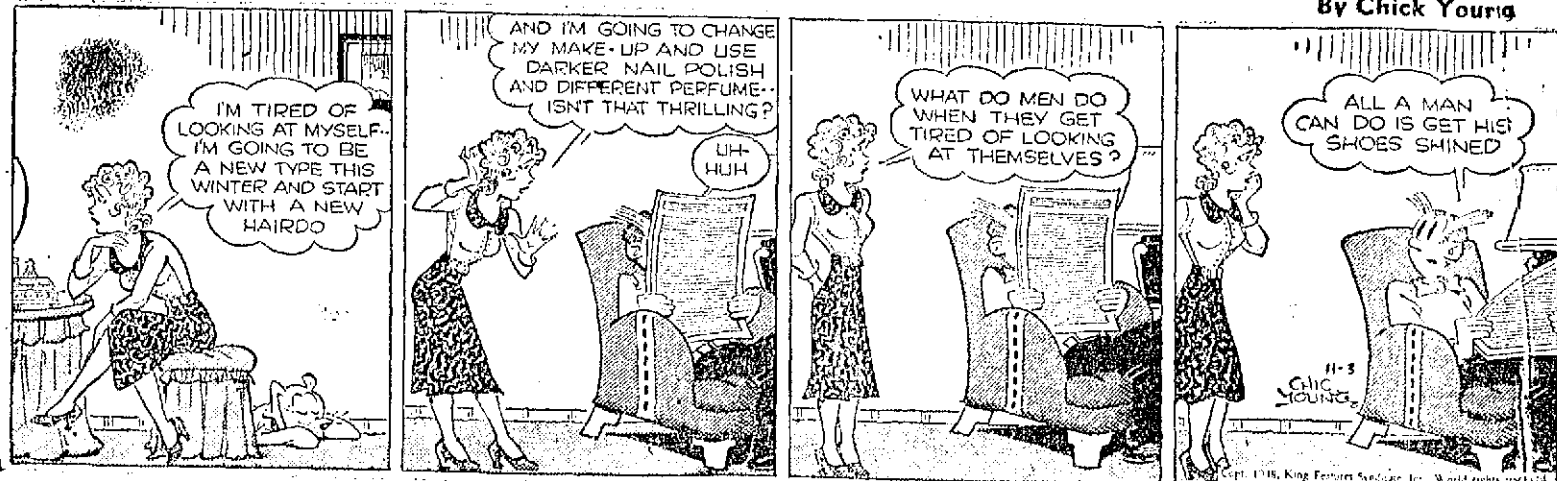

Rice-Arkansas Reserve Seat Tickets Available

Little Rock, Nov. 3 —(UP)—Approximately 1,000 reserved seats for Saturday's Rice-Arkansas football game in Little Rock were to go on sale today.

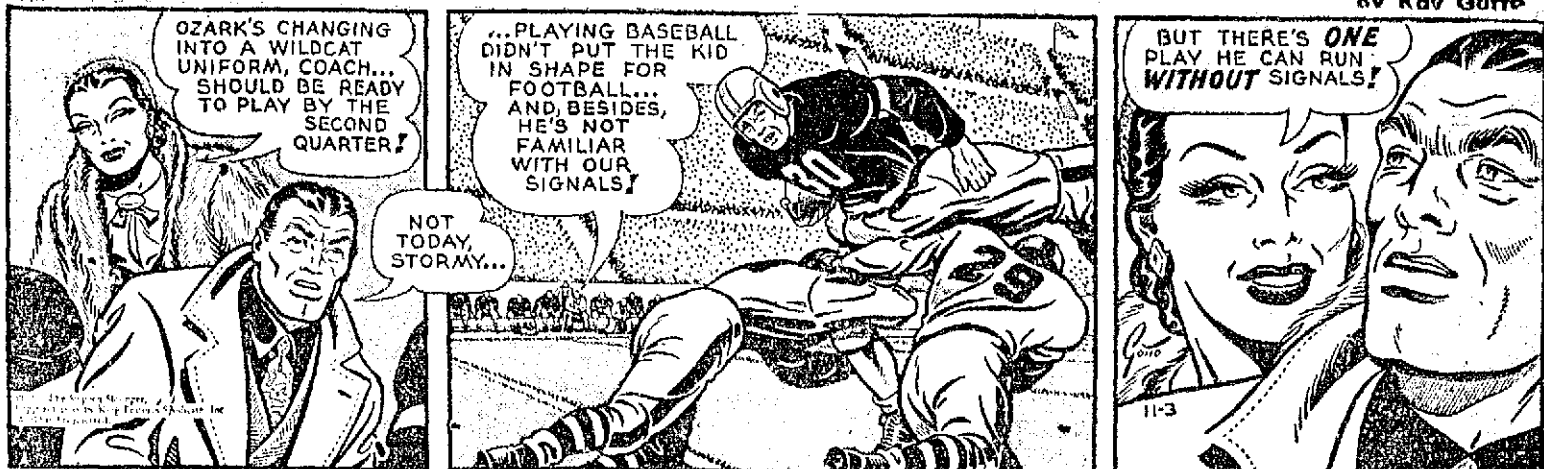

Alan Berry, manager of the Hotel Marine, beginning at 10 a. m. Berry said he expected the tickets "to go fast."

Cabeza de Vaca and his men walked from the Atlantic to the Pacific through what is now the United States in the 1500's.
